From the Office of Student Services

WOW! We are at the end of the 2021-2022 school year! A few reminders as we finish up the school year; be sure to have any/all fines paid, attendance still counts, and the dress code is still in effect. Future juniors and seniors: If you plan to park at school, complete the parking application correctly to receive a parking spot for the next school year.

We leave you with some great things that happened this month in the office of Student Services: The last renaissance fair took place, and the PRO shop delivered new NHS gear to our students!! The renaissance fair was a grand celebration of the students that made academic gains; We are very excited to continue celebrating the success of our students academically. To snag some sweet NHS swag for free, collect PRO tickets from your teachers. Students can also use cash to purchase school gear. While you are away for the summer, refresh and recharge to start the next school year strong. We want to leave you with a few reminders, but we hope everyone has a great summer!

Please be aware of the Naples High School dress code as you go summer shopping:

- Jeans/shorts must not have holes or have leggings underneath the holes

Assistant Principal Curriculum & Instruction

Summer Break! A phrase echoed among students (and teachers) everywhere! Breaks are always a great way to re-energize and spend time with loved ones. Please take some time for yourselves and each other and enjoy the time away from school and/or work. The 2022-2023 school year will be here before you know it. Don't forget to keep reading to keep the mind sharp. Pick a good book on a topic or author where there may be an interest. Or delve into something new and exciting.

Speaking of new and exciting, students had the opportunity to review their course requests for next year and make any last minute changes and had to turn in these changes to the guidance office. Counselors will not be available during the summer to make any additional changes to course requests. Course/Schedule changes will be done during the first two weeks of the 2022-2023 school year. Schedule changes will be handled on a priority basis, that is, a missing class needed for graduation, a "hole" in the schedule, a duplicate course, etc. All requests are final. Counselors and administration do their best to make sure all students receive their first choice, but that is not always possible. Counselors will review the alternates and place the student in one of the alternate choices.

On another note, a few students may have missed their exams due to an early vacation, or other reasons. No worries! If students missed any final exams, please call 377-2220 to schedule a day and time to make up the tests. The Curriculum Office will be open Monday through Thursday from 7:00am – 4:30pm until June 22 and will reopen on July 12. Any exams that are missed will have an automatic grade of a zero, but once the exam is complete a recalculation will be done.

Report cards will be published during the summer. Remember if the student has taken a course with an End-of-Course exam, the final grade will not be calculated until the results of the EOC are back, as the EOC counts as the final exam grade.

Finally, the Naples High Office of Curriculum, Teaching & Learning wishes you a happy, healthy, safe, and fun-filled summer break! Enjoy!

Math Department

The end is finally in sight! Students have been finishing AP exams in Statistics and Calculus and are excited to be one step closer to finishing up the year.

The algebra and geometry teachers have been engaging students in a Bootcamp Review to get them prepared for their end of course exams. These reviews have included review games like Balloon Pop, Breakout activities, mini quizzes, and some test taking strategies.

Students have really seemed to enjoy the activities and are gaining confidence that they can pass their exams.

All other math students not in the above-mentioned courses will be taking a district-created final exam on their laptops. Students should arrive rested with their fully charged laptops on their exam days.

Students are working on review problems that will give them codes they need to unlock the locks before time runs out. They worked well together and even found and fixed mistakes they had been making!

Happenings in the NHS Academy of Information Technology

As the 2021-22 school year ends, the success of the NHS AOIT students have really shined bright. Academy students who are in Digital Design and TV Production class have had the opportunity to qualify to take the Adobe industry certification tests free of charge as Collier County Public School Students. This year we have seen over 70 students achieve these adult level Adobe Certified Professional certificates in programs like Photoshop, Animate, Illustrator, and Premiere. Several students have also earned their Adobe Specialty Credentials in Visual Design, Video Design, or Web Design by pairing two or more certifications together.

Mr. Hubbard's Digital Design 2, 3, and 4 students completed a graphic design package that included style sheets, graphics, documents, and web animations for on campus organizations and local businesses in a chance to feature their skills while gaining experience working for real clients. Many student graphics and animations could be used in the future by their organization or business.

In Mr. Parlier's Journalism class, the students have created a very informative and entertaining online version of the Talon Tribune that can be seen at NaplesTalon.com. This is a student written, edited, and published newspaper that highlights the great talents and happening here at NHS. In other news, Mr. Parlier and his wife Emily welcomed a future Golden Eagle to the family this school year named Ryker. Congratulations to the Parlier family!

Spotlight on ELA Scholars

We here at Naples High are so very proud of the many outstanding scholars we have the opportunity to work with on a regular basis. This quarter, we would like to highlight Adriana Dotres' notable achievement. Adriana recently represented our Golden Eagle family at this year's Laws of Life Essay/Speech Contest where participating high school scholars were asked to reflect on a role model in their lives that has helped them "understand the importance of practicing the Laws of Life" with an emphasis on either respect, responsibility, kindness, perseverance, self-discipline, or fairness.

Adriana, inspired by her father's unyielding commitment to his goals, chose to center her speech on perseverance. "I wrote about my dad, Victor. Well, I chose to write about him because he has overcome a lot of challenges in his life, and he has always reached to do better about whatever he was doing. For example, he always wanted to run for office. So, he ran in a few small elections, and even when he would struggle, he always stayed in the race. Because of his perseverance, he was given many opportunities, such as being on a public art committee."

Adriana's Laws of Life speech not only stood out amongst her classmates here at Naples High, she was also recognized at the district level. Dotres was selected as one of ten finalists, ultimately finishing among the top four high school speechwriters.

When asked if she would recommend the Laws of Life competition to her peers, Adrian responded "Overall, I am very glad that I submitted my essay because it was a really good opportunity to practice my speaking in front of an audience. I would 100% encourage other students to participate in future Laws of Life competitions."

Science Department

Mrs. Miranda's forensic science class students will start building, Crimes Scenes Dioramas. This project is based on the work of Frances Glessner Lee (1878-1962) in which she crafted her extraordinary "Nutshell Studies of Unexplained Death"—exquisitely detailed miniature crime scenes—to train homicide investigators to "convict the guilty, clear the innocent, and find the truth in a nutshell." These dollhouse-sized dioramas of true crimes, created in the first half of the 20th century and still used in forensic training today, helped to revolutionize the emerging field of homicide investigation. Lee, the first female police captain in the U.S., is considered the "mother of forensic science" and helped to fund the first-of-its kind Department of Legal Medicine at Harvard University when the field of forensics was in its infancy. Mrs. Miranda will showcase their work on the NHS social media websites.

NHS Academy of Health Science

Biomedical Science at NHS

This Academy focuses on developing students' abilities to solve real world problems affecting human health. They learn both the conceptual and hands on procedures utilized by biomedical professionals today. Upon completion of the 3-year program provided by Project Lead the Way, Naples High School students are given the opportunity to complete an industry-recognized exam in Biotechnology.

The curriculum is presented in a format that steps away from traditional learning and puts students on a path of discovery. Students first perform various activities which allow them to familiarize themselves with concepts and tools, next they are asked to apply this information to complete a project, then ultimately students are asked to apply all they have learned to a novel, real world problem.

This 2021/2022 academic year marks the inaugural year at Naples High School of the first year of this exciting opportunity, Principals of Biomedical Science! We started with a crime scene investigation which led to exciting labs where students practiced technical skills like blood type analysis and DNA fingerprinting!

We took a slight detour from molecular genetics and looked into human body systems to investigate cause of death with histological analysis of brain tissue for CTE effects and heart dissections looking for anatomical defects. The course invites students to play the role of medical professional as they learn to take/evaluate vital signs, draw blood for CBC assessment, learn about genetic disorders/inheritance patterns and reading karyotypes! We enjoyed a visit from a local cardiovascular specialist that shared his passion for his career and his background in innovation. Throughout the course students are asked to investigate careers, discuss the educational requirements, roles they provide and reflect on their own interests. The students were given further exposure to career opportunities at the Collier County First Responders Career Fair!

We then moved our experiences back into the classroom where we learned about epidemiology and the process of isolating and identifying organisms responsible for nosocomial infections in a hospital. They performed the lab procedures expected of a lab technician in epidemiology inclusive of gram staining! These activities were followed by a visit to NCH where the students got to explore their simulation unit and learn about nosocomial infections directly from the professionals in our community. This program is unique and ready to grow with the launch of our second year, Human Body Systems, in 2022/2023!

EDUCATION

Judith & Marvin Herb Family Simulation Center Hosts Naples High School Students

The Judith & Marvin Herb Family Simulation Center hosted 94 Naples High School students in a live-hour infectious disease workshop with their instructor Gail D'Arcy, Dr. Doug Harrington, Julia Kicany, Hope Goodwin, Remita Szauderker (NCH Volunteer), and Julie Vanderboom (NCH Volunteer and generous donor to the NCH Simulation Center).

Naples High School participates in a biomedical science program offered by Project Lead the Way (PLTW). The program offers a novel learning environment based on problem solving, designed specifically to educate students in both the hands-on and conceptual skills foundational in a wide array of careers in the biomedical industry. The workshop included a bio-hazardous room where the students had to investigate the causative organism that was making the patient sick, a workshop on how to manage a splash aerosol bacteria risk and wound, a workshop on PPE (donning and doffing), and a lecture using the Anatomage virtual dissection table.

The students really enjoyed the workshop and the fact that they were able to tie their curriculum to all of the learning activities/simulations and equipment.
